LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

OFFICE OF THE TERRITORIAL AUDITOR,
BISMARCK, Dakota, Nov. 30, 1886.

HON. GILBERT A. PIERCE,
Governor of the Territory of Dakota:

Sir—Pursuant to requirements of section 7, chapter 7, political code, and section 19, chapter 69, laws of 1885, I have the honor of herewith submitting to you, for your information and for transmission to the legislative assembly, the report of the territorial auditor for the biennial fiscal term ending at this date. It comprises two general divisions:

I. Pertaining to the fiscal affairs of the territory.

II. Pertaining to the business of the insurance department.

In connection with each division are submitted such remarks as it has seemed to me might properly accompany the tabular reports, in order that the transactions of the office should be better understood, the requirements of the public service more fully comprehended, and the general welfare subserved.

Expressing my warmest thanks for the uniformly kind consideration which has been manifested by you toward this office in all our relations, and acknowledging likewise the courtesy which has invariably been extended by the other territorial officials, and generally by parties having transactions with the office, I am, sir, with great respect,

Your obedient servant,
E. W. CALDWELL,
Territorial Auditor.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

DIVISION I—FISCAL AFFAIRS.

WARRANT ACCOUNTS.

THE TABLES

of this report, as required by section 7, chapter 7, political code, show

1. A statement of the date, number and amount of each warrant drawn during the period, the person in whose favor, and on what fund, each warrant was drawn—all arranged with reference to the funds drawn upon, instead of according to the numerical order of the warrants.

2. The total amount of warrants redeemed and returned to the auditor by the territorial treasurer.

3. A statement of the accounts of the several funds and appropriations, showing the sums appropriated for each fund, the amount of warrants on each fund, and the unexpended balances of the same.

THE TOTAL EXPENDITURES of the territory from the various funds during the biennial period, by warrants of the territorial auditor, amount to $955,035.37. The details are supplied by the tabulated statements of the report. The number of warrants by which this sum was drawn is 5,327—a number nearly two and one-half times that of the preceding biennial period, and several hundred greater than the entire issue of the office up to that time embraced in this report. The growth of the fiscal business of the office is indicated by the following table showing the issue of warrants in each year since the first of the territory's history, the total number being 10,080:

1863	4	1875	96
1864	none	1876	101
1865	none	1877	277
1866	none	1878	133
1867	23	1879	321
1868	18	1880	270
1869	28	1881	409
1870	26	1882	508
1871	46	1883	977
1872	47	1884	1,274
1873	112	1885	2,809
1874	80	1886	2,518

THE VARIOUS SPECIAL FUNDS

upon which warrants have been drawn, as shown by the tables, are named below, the general headings being arranged alphabetically. Only those appropriations are regarded as separate and distinct "funds" where the amount was made definite and specific or limited by the legislature, other payments being made out of the general fund:

UNEXPENDED BALANCES.

The practice of this office from the beginning, so far as I have been able to discover, has been to carry over to the following biennial period, to the credit of the respective funds, the unexpended balance of any appropriation. There is no statute fixing a definite time at which any appropriation shall cease to be available for the purpose for which it was intended; and the fact that the reports of the fiscal officers are made out at a time months prior to the date at which new appropriations are enacted, makes it impracticable that balances should be charged back into the treasury at the close of the ordinary biennial period. They therefore have to be carried over to the books of the new period, and there is no authority for charging them off then. As a remedy for this, and to provide for clearing the auditor's records from accounts which are practically extinct, and also to prevent the appropriation of more funds for any two years than was intended or desired for any particular object, I would suggest the enactment of a general statute authorizing the auditor to cover into the treasury, by counter charges upon his books, any balances which in his opinion may be no longer necessary for the objects for which the appropriations were provided, and likewise to cover in any balances standing to the credit of funds when new appropriations therefor are made.

BOND PREMIUMS.

The fact that a premium was realized in the sale of territorial bonds issued under the authority of the last legislature, raised a question as to the disposition of the money thus secured. The appropriation of funds derived from sale of the bonds, as distributed to the various purposes, in some instances amounted to just the par value of the bonds, so there was no distribution of the amount received as premiums; therefore, it could not be credited to the special fund concerned, and was consequently turned into the general fund. In other cases, the statute providing for the bonds appropriated "the proceeds thereof" to the object concerned, which was therefore credited therewith. In one instance a statute was found, providing that moneys remaining in the fund belonging to the institution designated should be under control of its board of directors, and in pursuance thereof the premium was turned over to the treasurer of the board for disbursement by the directors. I would suggest the enactment of a statute relating to cases of this character, by which such premiums or receipts from other unexpected sources, might be turned over to the management concerned, making it a contingent fund where one was not already provided, or an addition to such fund if already included in the appropriation. Many times there are legitimate expenditures which ought to be made by the board for the public benefit, but for which there is no fund provided—and the statute suggested would in such cases supply means for such purposes.

MANAGEMENT OF INSTITUTIONS.

Payments of per diem, mileage or expenses to members or officers of the managing boards of the several public institutions, with the exception of the Sioux Falls penitentiary and the Madison and Spearfish normal schools, are under the law made from the general funds of the territory, instead of from the specific appropriations for the respective institutions. This being the case, the boards are practically unlimited in the amount of their expenditures for their own services. The payments from the general fund for these services have in the past two years amounted to $16,142.97. While there is not room for suspecting that there has been any very general advantage taken of the circumstances, it is still evident that the better plan is to have the amount limited more closely than is the case under the present system. The same observations may be made in regard to resident officers of the institutions. Some of these are under the law paid from special appropriations, and some of them from the general fund. By making them all payable from specific appropriations, the expenditures are brought directly to the notice of the legislature at each session.

CAPITOL BUILDING FUND.

The capitol building fund is something anomalous in the records of the auditor's office. It has no credit upon the books, as there was no direct appropriation of any amount therefor, and no provision under which a report was to be made to the office of amounts available. The law directs that the auditor shall pay "by his warrant upon the territorial building fund" anything which shall be certified to him by the commissioners as "necessary expenses"—which has been done, notwithstanding there has been no means of determining by the record, as there is in the case of other funds, whether or not there was any available balance for payment of the warrants. During the two years ending with this report there have been warrants drawn to the amount of $52,500.60 on this fund.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The special appropriation of $20,000 for holding a constitutional convention at Sioux Falls has an unexpended balance of $6,297.55. A special tax sufficient to reimburse the territorial treasury for payments under the appropriation has been levied on the counties included in the area south of the forty-sixth parallel, as directed by law. The exhibit of warrants drawn on the appropriation does not show in detail all the objects for which the funds were expended, but there have been filed complete vouchers for such expenditures. The president of the convention drew in bulk sums sufficient for paying per diem, mileage, printing, etc., connected with the first session, while most of the subsequent expenditures were paid by warrants issued directly to the individuals personally entitled to the amounts.

CENSUS FUND.

The exhibit of warrants drawn in payment of services and expenses connected with taking the territorial census of 1885, does not contain the names of and sums paid to all the enumerators and others engaged in the North Dakota district. The supervisor of that district drew in bulk as needed the money for payment of the expenses therein, and then filed vouchers showing that it had been disbursed for the purposes intended. In the South Dakota district the supervisor had each individual's voucher sent to this office, duly approved; and warrants were drawn direct to such individuals. The expenses of providing blanks, copying the rolls, etc., were likewise drawn in bulk, and vouchers for disbursement thereof duly filed. The list of warrants drawn for census expenses therefore does not indicate in detail the ultimate parties to whom payment was made. The total expenses of the census amounted to $44,968.47. Under a general federal statute, any commonwealth making a semi-decennial enumeration is entitled to receive from the national treasury an amount contingent upon the increase which the figures may show to have been achieved since the previous federal census. In the case of this territory this amount, finally received after certain deductions, was $32,265.56, which sum was turned into the territorial treasury.

MILITIA FUND.

The law pertaining to militia does not place any specific limit on the membership, but requires organization of companies upon application therefor under certain conditions. This takes away from the territorial authorities any opportunity to restrict the number of persons and organizations which shall have claims upon the treasury. The law then fixes certain payments to each company and regiment, and to each member thereof, and directs absolutely that these "shall be paid out of the territorial treasury." There are likewise other expenditures on account of the militia, which the territorial authorities are not permitted to limit, but are positively directed to incur. A special appropriation of $15,000 per annum was made to meet all these, but it was inadequate for payment of the expenses unconditionally ordered, and which, independent of the appropriation, were directed to be paid out of the treasury. It was finally determined that the specific demands of the law to pay expenses could not be disregarded, notwithstanding the insufficiency of the direct appropriation, and there was transferred to the militia fund from the general fund a sufficient amount to liquidate the claims. The law pertaining to the duties of the auditor does not confine his warrants to direct appropriations, but he is commanded to issue them for "all accounts and claims against the territory, which shall be by law directed to be paid out of the treasury thereof."

SMALL-POX PATIENTS.

Under the law, the territory is required to pay the expenses of indigent patients infected with small-pox or other contagious disease, if they be "non-residents of the territory". Between Cavalier and Towner counties lies a strip of country which for some reason is not included in any county. In this strip an epidemic of small-pox appeared. The infected district was quarantined by the authorities of Cavalier county, and medical attendance and other necessaries provided for the afflicted persons, under direction of the county board of health, upon communication with the territorial auditor. While technichally these persons were not "non-residents of the territory", they were not residents of any county in the territory upon which the expenses of their misfortune could be laid as a public charge. It seemed that a serious emergency had arisen, and the auditor felt that the circumstances justified the payment of the expenses by the territory, under the spirit of the law referred to. The amount thereof, as shown by vouchers amply verified as to the necessity of the expenditures and the indigency of the afflicted persons, was $981.95. In Brookings county a similar epidemic was suffered, the territory's share in the expenses arising from which was $832.25 for indigent non-residents.

THE DETAILS OF EXPENDITURE,

by warrants upon the territorial treasurer, are shown in the following tables, prepared according to the requirements of the statute. Under each fund is exhibited in consecutive order the number and dates of the warrants drawn thereon, the person to whom drawn, and the amount thereof:

* Amount made available was from sale of lands belonging to the institution.
† This fund is credited with $121.08, returned by regents as rebate on freight on fuel.

The total balance from last period, the specific appropriations for this period, and the amount paid from the general fund, as shown above, foot up only $995,963.86, while the total available amount is $998,219.94. The difference of $2,256.08 is accounted for by $2,135.00 made available for the normal school at Madison, by the sale of lands belonging to the institution; and $121.08 added to the available balance of the university at Vermillion, by a draft from the regents for rebate on freight on fuel. Notwithstanding the total of warrants drawn on the amount of funds made available is shown to to be $955,035.35, the total balances are shown to be $95,685.18, whereas they would seem to be only $43,184.58. The discrepancy, amounting to $52,500.60, arises from the fact that the total amount available does not include any funds provided for the payment of warrants on account of the capitol building, there being no report of any such credits to the auditor. The total of unexpended balances as shown by the table is therefore correct.

SUMMARY OF EXPENDITURES.

The various expenditures for the biennial period may be summarized as below, according to the objects for which they were made, instead of the sources from which they were provided. In this summary some charges are included more than once, being embraced under different accounts—as, for instance, expenditures for insane patients are embraced in the hospital accounts, and likewise in the expenditures for charities—the purpose being to group the information concerning the different objects for which the territory has paid its money:

ASSESSMENTS AND TAXATION.

THE TOTAL ASSESSMENT of property in the territory in 1885 amounted to $106,499,549.34, and in 1886 to $132,542,703.20. The details are shown in the tables of this report. The increase of 1885 over the previous year was 23 per cent., and of 1886 over 1885 nearly 25 per cent. The increase in the total assessment of 1886, in face of the fact that the development of the territory was not so great as during the previous seasons, was probably due to a special effort of the auditor's office to secure an assessment in the various counties which should come nearer including all taxable property, and at figures at least approaching its actual value. For this purpose a pamphlet was prepared and a copy placed in the hands of every assessor and deputy assessor, giving the law pertaining to assessments, with comments and instructions in regard thereto. In many of the counties very satisfactory results were secured, but in some instances officials disregarded the plain requirements of the statute, and permitted a listing at figures altogether too low. The disposition to list property for taxation at much less than its value, or to not list it at all, is something which it would be trite to comment upon.

AVERAGE VALUATIONS AND LEVY.

Below is given a table showing the average valuations of property in the various counties, as listed for 1885 and 1886, and the levy for territorial purposes as determined by the territorial board of equalization (including also the levy of 1886 for repayment of the expenditures for the constitutional convention held for counties south of the forty-sixth parallel). It will be seen that the levies for the respective years were made to precisely offset the differences in the scales of valuation adopted in the several counties. The average total levy for the territory for 1885, for both ordinary revenue and bond interest, was 3 mills, and for 1886 it was 2.4 mills—a reduction of 20 per cent.—and the levy for either year was less than the statutory limit, which is 3 mills for ordinary revenue alone, and as much as may be necessary for bond interest. The figures are as follows:

THE PRESENT SYSTEM

of levying taxes for territorial purposes is based upon the theory that the average value of any particular class of property should be regarded as being the same wherever it may be located—whether in a well settled county and close to good markets, or near the frontier—a theory evidently contrary to the facts. At the time the law was framed it was sufficiently near the truth for all practical purposes, for there was not near so much difference then between the various counties; but the intervening years have resulted in wide variation of values, of which the law should take cognizance in distributing the burdens of territorial taxation. The auditor would therefore suggest such amendment of the statute as will permit the board of equalization to make distinctions in the rates levied against the several counties, so that considerations affecting the average actual value of property in the different regions may be taken into account.

THE METHOD OF EQUALIZATION

by the territorial board, under the present law, is unique. It requires that the amount of property returned by any county, and the scales of valuation as adopted therein, shall remain unchanged, and that the rate for territorial tax be varied so as to compensate for any lack of reasonable uniformity in the scales of valuation adopted by the different assessors. The usual method in other commonwealths, I believe, is for the board to increase or decrease the total amount, and the scales of valuation on enumerated property, as returned by each county, by such per centum as may be necessary to have a fair and just relation between them. If, now, it be concluded in this territory to permit discriminations between the several counties, according to location, as has been suggested heretofore, the matter of equalization would be less complicated if the method be adopted of varying the assessments returned by the several counties, instead of varying the rate of the territorial tax thereon.

THE TERRITORIAL BOARD,

as at present constituted, could scarcely be expected to know all that should be taken into consideration if a sliding scale based upon location of property should be provided for, as suggested above. They could not determine the average actual values in any region. The returns of the counties themselves could not be accepted, and the matter should not be settled by guesswork. The most feasible plan would seem to be one providing for a board on which the several regions might have representation, as has been adopted in many of the states. For instance: let the clerks or auditors of the several counties in any judicial district meet at some county-seat therein—say the one which might be the residence of the judge of the district—to equalize the assessments of the said counties, by increasing or decreasing any of them by such per centum as might be necessary to make them compare fairly among themselves, all things considered; then let these equalized valuations of the districts be reported to the territorial board—say as at present constituted—to be by it varied among each other, if need be, so as to properly adjust the burdens of government throughout the territory. By this means due regard could be given the peculiar condition of any particular locality, by which property there is made more or less valuable than the average for such property in the territory at large.

COUNTY EQUALIZATION.

There are questions raised as to the scope of authority of equalization boards in counties having township organization. A comparison of section 28, chapter 28, political code, with section 84, chapter 112, laws of 1883, will show how the question rises. Has the county board authority to raise or lower the general scale of assessments in a township? Or is the review of the township board final as to the personal property of residents of the township? It would seem that the correct policy would be to permit the village, city or township board to equalize as between individuals, by raising or lowering particular entries upon the list; and then let the county board equalize as between townships, etc., by increasing or decreasing the valuations adopted in each, by such per centum as might be necessary to make the several assessment districts compare fairly among themselves. There are also cases reported in which some particular kind of property—as, for instance, a mill—is in one township assessed much higher than a similar piece of property of about the same value in another township in the same county. To provide for rectifying discriminations of this kind would probably be difficult, if any powers whatever be retained for township boards.

CLASSIFICATION OF PROPERTY.

In order that equalization boards—from the township board of review to the territorial board—should have ample data from which to determine whether or not the values placed upon the different classes of property are just and fair, there should be in the assessment a very much more minute classification of property than at present provided, and the returns to the equalization boards should show as fully as possible the number of everything which it is practicable to enumerate—not only acres and cattle and horses, etc., but likewise pianos, gold watches, agricultural implements, vehicles, etc.; and they should distinguish between young live stock of various ages and that which is mature; and they should separate from lands and town lots the improvements thereon; and should to every reasonable extent enlarge the information contained so as to give the board a clear comprehension of the facts—which cannot be had where so much property is lumped and listed in bulk.

EXEMPTIONS AND DEDUCTIONS.

The plan of not listing certain portions of a tax-payer's property, which may under the law be exempted from taxation for reasons of public policy, opens up opportunities for quite general evasions—as the reports of household goods, etc., show. This might be in some measure corrected if every tax-payer were required to list, by as minute enumeration as practicable, all that he owns, from which list could be deducted the exemptions to which he might be entitled. The same observation may be made in regard to deductions from credits owned by any tax-payer, on account of indebtedness due from him. If this reduction be continued hereafter, it should be required that both the debits and credits should be reported to the assessor under oath before any deduction from the latter be allowed—the balance to be then put upon the list as the adjudicated amount of the credits.

FULLER ENUMERATION.

The central idea in an assessment, as it seems to me, should be that the assessor's lists shall show, with all possible exactitude, every particle of property in the village, city, township or county, which is liable to taxation. It is evident, of course, that to secure this would require considerably increased service in making the enumeration; but as the assessment is the basis of all proceedings in raising the public revenue, and as it is the method which must be depended upon for justly distributing the burdens of taxation among the tax-payers, it is entitled to most careful consideration, and every practicable means which will guarantee efficiency and accuracy should be adopted. In this connection, a suggestion may also be made, to the effect that no instrument for conveyance of real property shall be recorded until upon it is endorsed a certificate of the county treasurer that all taxes due or assessed upon the property have been paid. This would in many instances stimulate early payment, and would likewise prevent complications of title which sometimes arise through oversight or otherwise.

ASSESSMENT BLANKS.

The blanks used in making an assessment should be uniform throughout the territory, in order that the returns from any township or county could be compared in all their details with those from another, and discrepancies in valuation be more readily detected. I therefore suggest either that the law shall prescribe a form, or that the territorial auditor be empowered to prepare pattern blanks and send samples thereof to each county clerk or auditor, to be used as the copy in preparing the supplies for assessors. By this means a more definite and specific classification of property could be secured, and a much fuller and more useful enumeration, with all that these have heretofore been demonstrated to imply.

GENERAL REVENUE LEGISLATION.

The preparation of the assessment pamphlet, heretofore referred to, brought to the notice of the auditor several considerations regarding taxation in general, and our revenue law in particular, some of which he desires shall be called to the attention of the legislature. As a preface thereto he would say that there are two ways in which the difficulties observed may be at least partially remedied—one being a considerable modification of the present law, and the other the enactment of an entirely new statute. In this connection, attention is directed to the report made to the last legislature by the tax commission of 1883, upon which no action was taken. At all events, the present revenue law ought to be gone over from beginning to end, step by step, and also all acts which have reference to methods pertaining to the revenue, and the whole revised and arranged so as to correct conflicts, omissions and ambiguities which are to be observed, and provide a statute less puzzling to those who undertake to administer it. The auditor will be glad to be at any time conferred with by the proper committee of either house of the legislature, in relation to such matters as have come to his observation regarding the practical working of the present law, and to do anything which shall assist in supplying a statute that will lay the public burden as nearly as may be equally upon all property subject to taxation within the territory, and provide ready and efficient methods for the work connected therewith.

INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

There are two general classes of personal property—tangible and intangible. The taxation of intangible personal property presents special difficulties, owing to its peculiar character. Tangible personal property may include certain classes of buildings, live stock, merchandise, manufacturers' raw material, household furniture, wearing apparel, jewelry, musical instruments, libraries, vehicles, implements and tools, boats, and material things generally which have an intrinsic value. Intangible personal property includes moneys, credits, promissory notes, stocks, shares, bonds, mortgages and all classes of securities, judgments, liens, annuities, and things in general the value of which is not in themselves, but in their relation to, or representation of, something else, which may be either real or personal property. It is a general principle of law that in the absence of a statute fixing the situs of intangible property where it may be kept, or where the tangible property it represents may be located, its situs is the residence of the owner. So, when the owner is a non-resident, his intangible property here cannot be taxed against him, unless there be a specific provision of law to that effect. Our statute not only does not contain such a provision, fixing the situs of intangible property independent of the residence of the owner, but there is at least one instance in which it says that property of that class shall be taxed here only when "held by any person or persons in the territory". I would therefore suggest the enactment of a statute making intangible property taxable, either where it may be created, where it may be recorded if subject to record, where it may be collectible, where the tangible property to which it refers may be taxed, or where it may be deposited or kept.

ESCAPING TAXATION.

The universal experience of officials connected with the duties of assessment, shows that a large proportion of the intangible property in any commonwealth altogether escapes, or if assessed at all it is listed at merely nominal figures. Whatever will assist in compelling the listing of such property for taxation ought to be done—for every person who enjoys the protection of government, for either himself or his property, ought to contribute to the expenses thereof. Of what value would any of this intangible property be, were it not for the stability of government and the opportunities for having legal claims enforced? Property of this kind is more dependent than any other upon those things for which taxes are levied; and it is therefore with increased emphasis that the demand may be made that it shall pay its full proportion of the revenue necessary to maintain records and courts and the public machinery which give it nearly all of whatever value it possesses.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

By many it is regarded as a sufficient objection to the assessment of certain classes of the property just referred to, when it may be said that such assessment is "double taxation". This objection certainly cannot be regarded as valid in any particular instance, so long as there is a general policy of taxing intangible property of any sort. In order to justify exemption of any particular class, because assessment thereof would be double taxation, the whole range of intangible property must be allowed to go free. The taxation of intangible property at all is necessarily double taxation—for it is laying a burden not only upon actual tangible possessions, but likewise upon that which in a sense is mostly the representative of such possessions—and it is unavoidable in a system like ours. But in addition to these considerations, as has been said, it is to be remembered that by its very existence intangible property lays increased burden upon the public exchequer, and that therefore the claim made upon it in addition to the claim made upon the tangible property with which it may be concerned, is justifiable in equity as well as in law. And in consideration of the fact that the collection of claims which may be involved in such intangible property may entail especial burdens upon the locality where they are payable or collectible, the situs of such property should be fixed at the place where the claim would properly be enforced.

TAXATION OF MORTGAGES.

In at least one of the states, mortgages, whether the property of a resident or a non-resident of the county, are made taxable in the county in which the mortgaged property is situated, if it be all included in a single county. This makes this class of property readily and directly liable for its share of contribution to the public revenue. There are those who hold the opinion that in case of taxation of mortgages, the amount thereof should be deducted from the assessed valuation of the property with which they are identified. But, as has been said, mortgages and other intangible property, by their very existence, are liable to increase the public expenditure, and for this reason they should on their own account be required to contribute to the public revenue. Where this has been required, difficulty has been experienced in devising a plan for enforcing collection of the tax; and the most feasible method seems to be to make the tax a lien on the interest. There are of course many phases to this whole question, and many things to be taken into consideration in the enactment of a law regarding the matter—all of which, no doubt, will be duly examined by the law-making authorities.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

The theory of our law, and of revenue statutes in general, seems to be that stocks, shares and similar securities, representing individual possession of parts of the capital of corporations, are to be regarded as the "personal property" of the holders thereof, to be taxed to them as such at the current value thereof, regardless of and without any deduction for real or personal property possessed by the company or association in which the capital thereof is invested, that may be taxed to it corporately. While this is apparently the theory of the law, there is scarcely sufficient expression to make it clearly evident and to give it practical application. If it be the design of the legislature that taxation in this direction be had, I would suggest that a provision be incorporated in the law which shall definitely and explicitly require the assessment of all shares and stocks as the personal property of the holders, at the actual current value thereof, without deduction for real or personal property assessed to the corporation. Against this proposition it may be urged by some that it would be double taxation; but the observations in another place upon this subject seem to me to rob the objection of any special force.

NATIONAL BANK STOCK.

The federal statute granting to the states permission to tax national banks, in express terms recognizes the distinction that shares of stock are a part of the personalty of the holders thereof, and are to be taxed as such to them individually; while the lots and the buildings thereon owned by the bank are realty belonging to it, and are to be taxed as such to it corporately. After careful examination, I have found but a single decision of any of the higher courts which holds that any deduction should be made from the personal assessment of stockholders, on account of the assessment of realty against the bank—and the argument in support of that exceptional decision is that such assessment is double taxation—and such an argument has been shown by other courts to be of no force in any particular case so long as our entire revenue system in general is so filled with instances of double taxation, as an unavoidable feature of the taxing of intangible as well as tangible property.

NON-RESIDENT SHAREHOLDERS.

The federal statute referred to above prescribes that national bank shares must be taxed in the town or city where the bank is located, and not elsewhere. Our code provides only for taxing of shares "held by any person or persons in the territory". By this provision, shares in national banks in this territory, owned by non-residents, must escape taxation entirely. The federal statute of course is not mandatory—and to construe it to be so, as some have done, is to suppose that congress overstepped its coustitutional power, for it is not authorized to dictate to the states that they must tax any particular class of property. It is merely permissive—and in thus granting to the states (or territories) permission to tax its creatures, congress requires that if they do tax national bank shares, it must be at the location of the bank, and not elsewhere. This territory, by the terms of its statute, deprives itself the privilege of taxing such shares when owned by a non-resident; and I would suggest such amendment of the law as will enable the territory to avail itself of the congressional permission, so that all national bank shares shall be taxed in the town or city where the bank is located.

DEDUCTIONS FOR INDEBTEDNESS.

Our statute permits the owner of credits to deduct therefrom —that is, from his intangible property—the amount of the debts which he may owe. This is, in the judgment of the auditor, unfair. No deduction from the valuation of tangible property is permitted on account of what the owner thereof may owe, even if the debt is for part of the purchase price—and certainly this class of property is entitled to as much consideration as the other. In addition to the fact that the statute referred to is scarcely in accord with the general principles of justice, its provisions regarding credits and deductions therefrom conflict with themselves. In one portion the assessor is required to value the credits, and in another the owner is permitted to do so—something which is permitted in regard to no other class of property, and the consequences of which need not be detailed. At least two different and varying definitions as to what is meant by "credits," are deducible from the language of the statute. Other points might be made, but these will be sufficient to demonstrate the necessity for amendment—and the auditor would suggest such amendment as will entirely wipe out anything which, in the matter of taxation, gives the owner of a mortgage or a promissory note any advantage over the owner of a farm, or a store, or live stock.

RAILROAD LANDS.

There has been considerable agitation by parties in different localities, regarding the assessment of lands secured by conditional purchase from railroad companies which received grants of such land from the federal government. The supreme court of the United States has decided that such granted lands could not be taxed in the possession of the company until the fees for surveying the same had been paid to the government. Considerable quantities of such land, on which such fees were delinquent, have been conveyed, however, to private parties under various forms, such as contracts for deeds, etc. The question was as to the right to assess such lands in the possession of the conditional vendee, when they could not be taxed in the hands of the vendor. It was held by this office that they could be so assessed. If the contingent title of the vendee were in conflict directly and entirely with the lien of the government for survey fees, it is doubtful if there could be anything to tax; but he has something more than a naked claim for the land to which the lien refers—he has the guaranty of the company, secured by very much more than simply the land he may purchase—he has recourse upon whatever the company owns. Actual legal title in fee simple is not essential as a basis for taxation. Anything may be taxed to any party, to which he has voluntarily any shadow or color of claim. The vendee's contingent title to such property as that referred to was therefore held to be assessable. If practicable, however, I would suggest such amendment of the law as will make such assessment a matter of specific statutory requirement, instead of interpretation.

As the matter of taxation of land, the fee of which is in the companies, and of other property belonging to them, does not under the present law come within the province of this office, it perhaps would not be appropriate that consideration should be given to the subject in this report, particularly as the matter will quite certainly come to the attention of the legislature through other channels.

GRAIN IN ELEVATORS.

It is declared that a very large proportion of the grain which is put into elevators and ought to be listed, escapes taxation each year. This grain being either merchandise or manufacturers' raw material, is under the law assessed differently from other personal property, so far as time of possession is concerned. Ordinary personal property is taxed to the person owning the same on April 1, but merchandise and manufacturers' material is taxed on the basis of amount owned May 1. This gives thirty days in which grain may be shipped out, and thus be taxed to nobody. I would suggest such amendment as will make grain in elevators, if not in transit, assessable the same as other property, so far as date of possession is concerned—and, futhermore, that the owner or lessee of an elevator or warehouse be made liable for taxes assessed against grain therein, whether owned by him or stored there by some one else, giving him a lien upon the grain until indemnified or reimbursed. If liability attaches only to the owner of the grain, who may have no other property in the territory, it may be removed before the tax can be collected; but the elevator is a permanent thing from which the tax can at any time be realized. By the repeal of chapter 116, laws of 1883, the section declaring grain elevators, warehouses, etc., located on railroad right-of-way, to be personal property for purposes of taxation, was done away with. I would recommend the re-enactment of this feature, as otherwise there might be opportunity for resisting collection under the liability suggested above.

CATTLE ON RANGES.

It is evident from an inspection of the assessment abstracts for any year, that the large herds of cattle on the ranges escape a great share of the tax which they ought to pay. Whether or not it may be possible to devise legislation which shall reach property of this kind, seems problematical. The tax commission of 1883, in the bill prepared and submitted to the last legislature with its report, undertook to deal with this matter, and I would recommend an examination thereof. It may be remarked, however, that were the difficulties of securing a full listing of such property surmounted, still greater difficulties would likely appear in undertaking the collection of the taxes which might be levied thereon. So far as those herds are concerned which are kept in unorganized connties, it seems impossible to reach them. The law enacted by the last legislature, for assessment of personal property in unorganized counties, has been declared by the court to be invalid; and this would appear to entirely prevent taxation of the herds referred to if they are to be regarded as "situated and kept" on the range.

MINING PROPERTY.

The assessment abstracts from that region of the territory which possesses the bulk of the mining property, contain but little indication as to its real value. It is a matter of common knowledge that large quantities entirely escape the tax which they ought to pay. This property is tangible and permanent, and it would seem that a full assessment thereof, and a collection of the tax levied thereon, would be a matter of no special difficulty.

MERCHANDISE.

The present law requires the listing of "all money or capital employed in merchandising", and also the listing of the goods purchased with this money. This seems to be an injustice, if technically executed. I would suggest that the law require a merchant simply to list his money in possession or on deposit, the same as required of other persons, and to list also the goods he may have in store, and whatever permanent property may be connected with his business. This would seem to cover all that could be justly required of him. The spirit of these observations may likewise be applied to investments in manufactories.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

I would suggest an amendment of the assessment law, so that commission merchants shall be definitely required to list in their own names such property as they may have for sale—as well that which they have on commission, as that which they may have purchased outright. Their case is different from that of ordinary agency. The subject is discussed in the assessment pamphlet issued by this office, reference to which is made in connection herewith.

MANUFACTORIES.

It seems necessary under the law as it at present exists, that the buildings and machinery therein, used as manufacturing enterprises, shall be regarded as personal property, and not a part of the realty on which they stand—an anomalous feature. If a provision be incorporated in the revenue statute, as suggested in this report, requiring the listing of improvements on real estate separate from the land itself, it will be easier to reconcile this feature, if it be retained, with other portions of the law. There is a difference of opinion as to the signification of the law pertaining to taxation of manufacturers' raw materials. It was held by this office that the completed product, even when still in the hands of the manufacturer, if so held by him for sale, should be listed as merchandise, at its value as such. It is held by some that under the language of the law, the completed product in the hands of the manufacturer, as well as that which is still in process of manufacture, is to be listed by him at only the value of the raw material therein. I would ask that the language of the statute be made explicit.

SITUS OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Formerly, the situs of tangible personal property was the residence of the owner; but an amendment by the last legislature changed it to "the county where said property may be situated or kept". A difference of opinion arose as to whether or not, in counties which have civil township organization, the situs was to be still further narrowed down to the township where the property was kept. The ruling of this office was in the affirmative. The negative argued that hardship might result in thus limiting the situs—for instance, in the case of cattle herded at the time of assessment in a township adjacent to where the owner resided and where the stock might be said to be kept, under which circumstances the property would possibly be assessed in both. But a statute which would undertake to provide for cases of this kind would result in greater hardships in other directions. The auditor is therefore convinced that the situs of personal property should be the assessment district in which it is kept, even if sometimes temporarily absent therefrom, whether such district be a county or township; and he would suggest such amendment of the law as will give definite expression upon the subject. There are other considerations regarding the situs of movable personal property, some of which are referred to in the assessment pamphlet issued from this office.

EXEMPTIONS.

The exemptions of household furniture and wearing apparel, made by the assessment law, are very ambiguous, and it is difficult to determine how the statute is to be applied, as will be seen by reference to the assessment pamphlet. I would suggest a thorough modification of the paragraph. A serious diversity of opinion exists as to the exemption granted as a premium for the planting of timber. Is there to be an exemption of the forty acres of land absolutely, regardless of its value, and likewise in addition thereto an exemption of one thousand dollars' worth of the improvements thereon? or is there to be simply a reduction of the owner's total assessment to the extent of one thousand dollars on both land and improvements? The latter was ruled by the auditor to be the correct construction, but he would suggest such an amendment as shall not leave the matter in question. It was likewise held that the exemption would have to be granted in cases where the trees were planted under the federal timber culture act, the same as if planted otherwise. If the legislature desires to offer the premium only to those who shall plant timber for other purposes than in compliance with said act, I would request a specific proviso to that effect.

PERSONAL DELINQUENCY.

The public revenue suffers seriously from non-payment of personal taxes assessed against parties who do not own real estate which may be made liable therefor. Under the law, five or six months intervene between the time of the assessment and the time at which the class of personal taxes referred to can be enforced by distraint and sale—as no steps therefor are permitted until the tax duplicate is in the hands of the treasurer, about November 1—and then only the treasurer is authorized to institute proceedings. The following plan is suggested as at least a partial remedy for the conditions referred to: Upon the attempt of any person not the owner of real estate liable for tax on his personal property, to remove such property from the assessment district in which it was listed, without paying or securing the personal tax which is due or likely to become due from him, any tax-payer therein may go before a justice of the peace having jurisdiction in said district and enter complaint charging the attempted removal, whereupon the justice shall issue a summons, as provided in ordinary civil Proceedings, and shall be empowered to issue a writ for attachment of said personal property, by which it, wherever found in this territory, may be taken into possession of the officer serving the summons, to be held until the tax either due or to become due as aforesaid, together with all costs and expenses connected with the distraint proceedings, are paid, or are guaranteed by an undertaking executed by a freeholder resident in the same assessment district, which undertaking shall render the realty of such freeholder liable for said personal tax and said costs and expenses due from his bailee, the same as if said tax had been a charge against said estate in the first instance. The justice of the peace shall immediately upon conclusion of the proceedings file with the county treasurer a transcript thereof, and turn over to him the tax if collected, or the undertaking specified, which shall be such treasurer's authority for making such entries in his records and accounts as are indicated by the result of the proceedings. In case of inability of the sheriff or constable to serve the summons or execute the writ, further proceedings thereunder may be dismissed by the justice, and the costs as certified by him in his next quarterly report to the board of county commissioners, shall be ordered paid by said board out of the county treasury; and in no case shall the tax-payer entering the complaint be required to pay any costs in the case, except when the justice shall certify in the minutes that the complaint was malicious or without probable cause, whereupon the complainant shall be adjudged by the justice to pay the costs and expenses.

MORTGAGED PERSONALTY.

From different quarters inquiry has come to this office as to whether or not personal property distrained for taxes must be sold subject to mortgage thereon. It has been held by the office that under our present law the claim of the mortgagee is superior to that of the public. While it is a general principle that the claim of the sovereign may be regarded as superior to that of any private person, still the burden is upon the sovereign to give formal expression to such superiority, and the method of establishing and enforcing the claim. In regard to the lien for taxes against real estate, such formal expression has been given in the laws of this territory; but there is no provision whereby any claim for taxes is made a prior lien upon personal property—and an expression in regard to one kind of property is an exclusion of the other, under the general rule. Therefore, when personal property is distrained for taxes, the sale thereof must first satisfy any legal private claim against it, and only the balance remaining is available for liquidation of the public claim. In some instances encumbered property so distrained will be found insufficient to realize both the mortgage and the taxes, and a seizure of the same by the collector would result in an increase of public expense, instead of an enlargement of the public revenue. It is, I believe, competent to the law for it to create a lien upon any personal property for personal taxes due from the owner, in case he does not possess real estate liable for such tax, and to make such lien prior to any private claim; and I suggest that the statute be amended so that distraint and sale of such property for taxes shall be regardless of any other claim, except a claim of the United States or the territory, as is now the case with real property.

COUNTY DELINQUENCIES.

The report of the territorial treasurer shows a delinquency from a number of counties for years prior to the last. This delinquency was a year ago much larger than at present, but it has been reduced by efforts of the treasurer and auditor to clear the books of accumulations extending in some instances back for ten or fifteen years. The basis of the territory's claim against any county for any year is the total assessment returned therefor by that county. If there be any error in the return, the account of the county is evidently wrong to that extent. It is not by any means always the case that the return is correct. Changes are sometimes made by the county board of equalization after the abstract is forwarded to the auditor. The clerk or treasurer sometimes enters upon the assessment roll property which had been omitted by the assessor or otherwise. Assessments are sometimes cancelled or abated by the county board for errors discovered after the return to this office. Taxes paid are sometimes refunded by orders on the county treasury for the same reason. All these of course affect the account of the territory with the county, and due notation thereof should appear on the books of the treasurer. Whether or not they have heretofore been generally reported, I cannot determine; but there does not seem to have been any practical attention paid to the matter. An attempt has been made during this administration to secure from the counties due certification of everything which could decrease the delinquency that the books exhibited. The result has been the reduction mentioned, and there is still more which it is expected will soon be ready to report. I would suggest the enactment of a provision requiring county authorities to immediately notify the territorial auditor of anything which could affect the claim of the territory otherwise than by payment thereof, which notification he shall refer to the territorial treasurer with the request that the account be duly credited or debited as the circumstances may indicate. In addition to provisions for enabling the treasurer's books to correctly show the claim which may hereafter accrue in favor of the territory against any county, it will also be necessary to provide for adjusting the claims which already exist. I believe it would be impossible, by any of the machinery which may at present be put in operation under our law, to secure a correct balance between the territory and a majority of the counties. Some special provision will be necessary, by which a compromise can be effected, and an adjustment of the accounts secured. The desirability of such an adjustment need not be argued, as a regard for the plainest business principles demands it. If the office of public examiner should be created, its powers might include that of investigating the accounts with the various counties, and decreeing the balances thereunder. Otherwise, the auditor might be authorized to make such settlement as in his judgment, after investigation of all the circumstances, might be deemed fair. At all events, the conditions of these old accounts are such as require legislative attention.

UNCOLLECTIBLE TAXES.

One great reason for the county delinquencies mentioned is the large amount of personal taxes due from parties without real estate liable therefor, who manage to escape without payment. The law undertakes to provide very rigorous treatment of county treasurers who fail to collect all taxes as levied; but it has not had very effective enforcement. There are so many excuses which treasurers may plead, and so many ambiguities and omissions in the revenue law, and so many things which might be set up as a defense against distraint, that it has been regarded as unwise to begin a campaign in the matter. With complete revision of the revenue law, it may be practicable to have a statute which can be more satisfactorily executed as to its requirements upon county treasurers in the matter of collection of personal taxes. The present law provides that the county treasurer shall prepare and submit to the county board at its July session a list of personal taxes which he may deem uncollectible, and upon the acceptance of such list by the board, he is relieved from collection. I would suggest that he be permitted to file such a list at any meeting; and that if at any time after its acceptance it shall be discovered that taxes enumerated therein may be collected, he be directed to enforce collection, the same as if they had not been so listed. This feature has been recognized in the rulings of this office, but it would be better to have it incorporated in the law. It is also provided in the statutes that the county treasurer shall bid in for the county any delinquent real estate for which there may not be bidders at the annual sale. I would suggest that in cases of this kind it be provided that the amount of the territorial tax involved be credited to the county in its general account on the books of the territorial treasurer, and that special accounts be opened as a record of the claim which may remain to the territory.

STANTON COUNTY.

The last legislature provided for the creation of an unorganized county to be called Stanton, out of portions of Kidder and Stutsman—contingent upon the approval of the voters in said portions. Of the total number of votes polled in both portions taken together, a majority was favorable; but it has been decided by the attorney general that the terms of the law are to be construed as requiring a favorable vote in each of the portions concerned—which was not secured, there being a majority in the negative in the portion proposed to be segregated from Stutsman. The last legislature also provided a general statute for the taxation of property in unorganized counties by the authorities of an adjacent organized county. Under this law, and because of an understanding that the proposition for the creation of Stanton county had been approved by the voters concerned, the authorities of Kidder county made an assessment in both 1885 and 1886, of property in Stanton county, as proposed, as of an unorganized county; but, under the decision referred to, the area is still included in the counties of Kidder and Stutsman, and an asssessment made as indicated was therefore irregular. It seems to me that, if it be possible to do so at all, it will require legislative action in order to make this property taxable under the assessments of 1885 and 1886. And if the creation of Stanton county had been accomplished as proposed, the taxation of property therein by the authorities of Kidder county could not have been carried into effect, as the judge of the Sixth judicial district has, I understand, decided against the validity of the statute providing for taxation in unorganized counties. And, furthermore, even if the statute were valid it does not provide for the assessment of real estate, as returned by Kidder county in the case of Stanton.

DATES, ETC.

By reason of partial amendments of the revenue law, the enactment of special statutes, and oversights in the adoption of regulations which more or less affect the machinery of assessments, there are discrepancies in dates for the performance of certain duties that ought to be rectified. It is not necessary to detail these, as such careful revision of the revenue laws as it is hoped may be had at the hands of this legislature will undoubtedly rectify the irregularities.

CONCLUSION.

There are many suggestions in regard to other features of the law than those which have been specially referred to herein, that might be presented, but as has been intimated, nothing but a complete and step-by-step inspection of it can discover them all. I have undertaken to call attention to those which are in a sense fundamental, and shall be glad to at any time do anything which can further assist in disclosing whatever the legislature may desire to know that has come under my observation pertaining to the revenue system. The tables showing the results of the assessment in the various counties for 1885 and 1886, under the present law, are given herewith.

DIVISION II.—INSURANCE.

BUSINESS OF THE PERIOD.

THIS REPORT

does not attempt to give copies of the annual statements filed by the several insurance companies authorized to do business in this territory during the last biennial period; but it has collected into two tables, one for each year, the figures contained in such statements, which are printed herewith. In 1885, there were seventy-six companies authorized to do business in one or more of the judicial districts of the territory, and they were represented by 3,870 agents authorized by this department; in 1886, there were eighty-four companies so authorized, represented by 4,055 agents. The sums received by me for the department during the two years have been as follows :

From my predecessor, as surplus of receipts, fees, etc., over expenses from November 30, 1884, the date of closing his report, to April 7, 1885, the date on which he relinquished the office	$ 2,083 30
From the companies and other sources direct, from April 7, 1885, to November 30, 1885	2,556 00
From the companies and other sources direct, from November 30, 1885, to November 30, 1886	7,724 90
Total receipts	12,364 20

The expenditures of these receipts have been as follows:

Paid for clerk hire in auditor's office from April 7, 1885, to November 30, 1886	$ 4,414 85
Paid for clerk hire in governor's office	1,000 00
Paid the territorial auditor	4,000 00
Paid into territorial treasury November 30, 1886, as surplus of receipts over expenditures, as provided by law	2,949 35
Total	12,364 20

The receipts of taxes in 1885, up to the time of the new law taking effect, were as follows :

From my predecessor, as having been collected from the companies before relinquishing the office	$ 7,170 42
From the companies direct	989 14
Total	8,159 56

This sum was turned into the territorial treasury as provided by law. The insurance statute of 1885 requires the companies to pay their taxes to the territorial treasurer direct, instead of to the auditor, the receipts for which have been duly filed in this department, the amount of which is $20,406.55.

DAKOTA BUSINESS.

The following table shows the insurance business done in the territory during the two years covered by the statements filed in the period, by authorized companies, and the percentage of increase of 1885 over 1884. It is to be borne in mind that the reports made by the companies in each year refer to the business of the previous year:

* Decrease.

AMONG THE DEDUCTIONS to be made from this table is the fact that there has been a cheapening of both fire and life insurance rates. The average rate charged by foreign fire companies in 1884 was $2.12 on each $100, while in 1885 it was only $2.06—a reduction amounting to nearly 3 per cent. It is impracticable to make a similar comparison in regard to Dakota fire companies, for the reason that a large share of the premium receipts reported by them for 1885 are understood to have been notes taken on business of 1884. For the same reason, it is impracticable to take the business of 1885 alone, as showing the surplus of premium receipts over losses paid, and therefore the business of the two years is taken together.

In 1884 and 1885, all the fire companies, both foreign and territorial, did a business of $1,831,629 in premium receipts in Dakota, and the total of losses paid was $935,442, leaving a surplus of $896,187 (49 per cent.), for expenses and profits. It is ordinarily figured that it costs about 30 per cent. for the expenses, and this, therefore, leaves the companies 19 per cent. for profit on their Dakota business. Following is a comparison of this Dakota business of all fire companies with that of some of the states, showing the per cent. of premium receipts over losses paid: Dakota, 49; Missouri, 45; Illinois, 44; Connecticut, 43; Michigan, 42; New York, 41. This demonstrates that Dakota is a particularly profitable field.

IN THIS CONNECTION

reference may be made to the fact that the opinion has been expressed by some of the most observant insurance officials of the country that there is no commonwealth in which the moral hazard is better than in Dakota, and that it is very much better than in a large proportion of the states. That is to say, their experience has shown that incendiarism, carelessness and other features of hazard not directly included in the physical condition of the property insured, are much less in Dakota than in several of the states, and that none of them show a better record in this respect.

UNDERGROUND INSURANCE.

Every commonwealth has difficulty in curtailing the business done therein by unlicensed companies, and it is a matter of common knowledge that a great many policies are written in this territory by companies not authorized to do business here. The method is such that it is questionable whether a prosecution for breach of the law regarding the regulation of insurance could be successful. A record of the premiums paid for such insurance would show a large addition to the Dakota business of the period, and it would likewise result in a considerable increase of the revenues of the territory, not only in the matter of fees to the department, but taxes to the treasury direct. I would suggest that this matter receive consideration by the legislature.

NEW ORGANIZATIONS.

By a provision in the insurance law of 1885, any association which at the time of the passage of the act had filed in the office of the auditor a declaration of intention to form an insurance company, was permitted to complete its organation under the law of 1883, which law was more liberal to organization than the later. At the time of the passage of said act, declarations of intention to form the following companies were on file in this office:

Pierre Fire and Marine Insurance Company, of Pierre;

Conservative Insurance Company, of Fargo; Northwestern Insurance Company, of Bismarck; and Citizens Fire Insurance Company, of Grand Forks.

The only one of these which up to this date has completed its organization and received authority to commence business is the Pierre Fire and Marine, the principal office of which has been removed from Pierre to Sioux Falls. Some further papers in the case of the Conservative have been filed, but organization has not been completed. The following companies have organized under the law of 1885, and have been authorized to commence business:

Dakota Mutual Insurance Company, of Huron; Northwestern Mutual Insurance Company, of Wahpeton; and Watertown Fire Insurance Company, of Watertown.

Declarations of intention to form under said law of 1885 have been filed by the following associations:

Revolution Insurance Company, of Huron; Pacific Fire Insurance Company, of Pierre; and Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of Huron.

The Farmers Mutual Protective Association, of Plankinton, was by this department authorized to do business upon filing its annual statement in January, 1886. Its incorporation had in 1884 been certified by the territorial secretary, by virtue of which it had proceeded to business, and this department required it to report and secure authority the same as if it had been regularly organized under the insurance statute, instead of the general incorporation law.

COUNTY MUTUALS.

As the organization or regulation of county mutual insurance companies does not come within the province of this office, I have no report to make regarding them. Casually, however, I have learned that the provisions for settlement of losses are generally regarded as burdensome in cases where the loss is small. It has been suggested that some less expensive method than that of summoning a committee of three or five members at two dollars per day and mileage, to be paid by the claimant, ought to be provided for adjusting losses amounting to less than fifty dollars.

INSURANCE LAW.

THE STATUTES

at present existing relating to the business of insurance, have been shown by the experience of the office to be so faulty and inadequate that it is useless to attempt the specification of amendments which should be made. It is to be hoped that the forthcoming legislature will take the matter up systematically, and not merely attempt to revise this law, but construct an entirely new one which shall leave much less to administrative legislation. As was said in that part of this report referring to the fiscal department of the office, the auditor will be glad to be at any time conferred with by the proper committee of either house, and to do whatever he can to assist in the framing of statutes which shall be more easy of execution, and which shall give the people of the territory greater security in the matter of insurance.

A CLASSIFICATION

of the subject of insurance will assist in appreciating the general directions in which it is desirable that legislation should be had. There are two distinct purposes of insurance laws—one of which pertains to the organization of companies, and the other to the regulation of the business in the commonwealth. These may of course be combined in the same statute, but each should have a division thereof. The general matter of insurance may be classified under two divisions—first, as to the methods or machinery by which it is provided; and, second, as to the objects for which it is obtained. There are fundamental differences in the methods, and each should have separate and distinct consideration in the law. These distinctions as to methods divide organizations into joint-stock, mutual and assessment companies or combinations of these. Distinctions as to the objects for which insurance is obtained may be with reference to insurance upon property or insurance upon person. Insurance of property would include indemnity for loss by fire, lightning, cyclone, tornado, hail or other elemental damage, marine or navigation risks, breakage of plate-glass, bursting of steam boilers, death or injury of live-stock by disease or otherwise—and in this might also be classed fidelity insurance, or indemnity for loss by malfeasance of trustees, employes, agents, etc. Insurance of person would include life insurance and accident insurance—and the former might be subdivided into ordinary life, endowment, annuity, etc., and the latter into ordinary casualty, travelers' accident, etc. These usual objects of insurance may be combined, so that one company will include two or more; but the classification mentioned may be generally regarded as representing separate objects, each of which is entitled to independent consideration in the framing of a law. There are also other varieties, such as marriage endowment, etc., which are abnormal developments in the way of insurance.

THE ORGANIZATION

of companies should be provided for upon the theory that stability is to be guaranteed, rather than the creation of enterprises is to be promoted. The present law, particularly in regard to the organization of mutual companies, is well nigh past finding out; and there are important breaches in the method for formation of stock companies. It is to be hoped that regulations may be adopted which shall make every step clear in regard to every kind of organization, and secure ready and efficient methods for the work laid upon the department.

THE REGULATION of the business of insurance is not properly a scheme for providing revenue for the department in charge thereof, nor for anything but protection of the public against instability, bad judgment or fraud. While in criminal prosecutions the defendant is to be presumed innocent until proven guilty, this does not necessarily argue that in the regulation of insurance business all companies are to be presumed sound until proven otherwise. Every good company would be willing to be put to its proofs at once, and as a primary requisite to its asking business—other kinds ought to be compelled to. Therefore, our law ought to establish certain requirements which every company must fulfill before being admitted to business—and they ought to be stated with sufficient particularity so as to be full notice to all applicants. The present law makes no requirement as to anything but the amount of the capital stock, and if the statement shows this to be up to the limit, the company must be admitted, and then the burden of proof is placed upon those who question its stability. It would seem that the burden should be on the company to prove itself sound before it be permitted to write policies.

THE REQUIREMENTS

which might properly be placed upon a joint stock company and those which might be placed upon a company organized on the mutual plan, are essentially so different as to almost necessitate separate laws for regulating them—at least there should be different divisions if both are included in the same act. But particularly should there be stringent and very specific regulations regarding insurance companies organized upon the co-operative or assessment plan. While it is true that there are some companies organized upon this plan which are entitled to respect, I am constrained to believe that a very large proportion of them are unworthy of public confidence and patronage. There is at present no law whatever upon our statute books which applies to such organizations, or which makes it practicable to discriminate between the good and the bad. The law should provide such restrictions as will sift out those projects which every well digested theory of insurance demonstrates to be impracticable and unsound, and which the experience of the older commonwealths, as recorded in official reports and the current records of such matters, has shown to be so largely a mixture of unwisdom and fraud.

THE TABLES

showing a summary of the statements filed in the department by the various companies doing business in this territory during 1885 and 1886, are printed herewith.
